

The Sixth Victim by Tessa Harris

London, 1888: The streets of London's Whitechapel district have become the nocturnal hunting ground for Jack the Ripper. Flower girl Constance Piper is not immune to dread, but she is more preoccupied with her own strange experiences of late. Clairvoyants seem to be everywhere as of late and Constance's mother has found comfort in contacting her late father in a séance. But are such powers real? And could Constance really be possessed of second sight? Constance becomes embroiled in intrigue far more sinister than she could have imagined and she'll need all the help she can get – especially because there may be more than one depraved killer out there.

The Stranger in the Woods by Michael Finkel

Many people dream of escaping modern life, but most will never act on it. This is the remarkable true story of a man who lived alone in the woods of Maine for 27 years, making this dream a reality—not out of anger at the world, but simply because he preferred to live on his own.

Hunger by Roxane Gay

Hunger is a searingly honest memoir of food, weight, self-image, and learning how to feed your hunger while taking care of yourself. Roxane Gay explores what it means to learn to take care of yourself: how to feed your hungers for delicious and satisfying food, a smaller and safer body, and a body that can love and be loved—in a time when the bigger you are, the smaller your world becomes.
